Fund Manager Report

Dear Valued Client,

March has been a pivotal month, marking a period of continued stability in the economic landscape. This has been supported by the proactive stance of the new government in initiating dialogue with the International Monetary Fund (IMF) – a move aimed to steer the country towards financial stability and growth. During the month, Moody's, a leading international credit rating agency, has revised the banking sector outlook for Pakistan upwards. This endorsement reflects a growing confidence in the country's macroeconomic fundamentals.

The Central Bank's latest monetary policy meeting was held during March, where the policy rate was kept unchanged. While recognizing the improvement in external accounts and trade, committee adopted a cautious stance towards potential fiscal impacts on inflation.

A notable achievement this month has been the current account surplus of USD 128 million. This positive shift is underpinned by double digit growth in export figures at USD 2.5 billion supported by remittances of USD 2.3 billion, against imports of USD 4.3 billion.

Moreover, the Consumer Price Index (CPI) for March presents a compelling narrative of inflation management, registering at 20.7% – a 22-month low leading to positive real interest rates. Market expectations on the other hand factor in the administrative and fiscal measures which might lead to inflationary effect thereby causing delays in monetary easing.

The KSE100 and KMI 30 indices notably ascended by 4% and 3%, respectively, achieving new record highs. This upward trajectory is largely attributed to the positive sentiments surrounding economic reforms and the anticipation of privatization initiatives. Adding to the positive momentum, the month also saw a significant influx of foreign investments, with a net buying totaling USD 15.3 million.

As we move forward, it's imperative to monitor the potential implications of increased revenue collection measures on the inflation trajectory. While current trends align with market anticipations, a delicate balance must be maintained to ensure that future inflation remains on a downward path, thereby facilitating a conducive environment for monetary policy adjustments and economic growth.
